

Re: Joshua N. Haldeman, D.C.,
The Canadian Years, 1926–1950 –
JCCA 1995; 39(3): 172–186.

It was with much interest that this historical review of Dr. Haldeman's contribution to chiropractic was read. Certainly this family has made a significant contribution to our profession of which they can be most proud.

The panoramic photo taken at Niagara Falls during the NCA Convention of 1938 not only includes Dr. Scott Haldeman's father as noted, but also my own parents (as indicated by the arrows) standing about six rows back. My father, Thomas MacRae practiced in Palmerston, and then Dundas, Ontario until his death in 1952.

John E. MacRae, DC, DABCR, FCCR
Dundas, Ontario

ERRATUM

Lee HK. Chiropractic's phenomenal advancement in these first 100 years (editorial). JCCA 1995; 39(3):187.

In paragraph 4 of this editorial, the sentence appearing as

"Others on the team were Drs. L. McPhail, J. Haldeman, J. Schnick, J. Gaudet, H. Lee and F. Wallace." (emphasis added)

should have appeared as

"Others on the team were Drs. L. McPhail, J. Haldeman, J. Schnick, J. Gaudet and F. Wallace."

The sentence appearing as

"Among those charged with this responsibility were Drs. J. Clubine, J. Henderson, C. Clemmer and others."

should have appeared as

"Among those charged with this responsibility were Drs. J. Clubine, J. Henderson, C. Clemmer, H. Lee and others." (emphasis added)